Participants will create their own unique mini art journals using everyday items, including lunch bags, envelopes, and file folders, along with beautifully crafted decorative paper pads. The keepsake mini journals make beautiful gifts to give or keep, and can be used to store precious memories, photos, and more. Its uses are only limited by the imagination of the creator!

Columbus native Teri Thomas is an exhibiting mixed media artist who loves to lead adults—and youth—in creating their own unique art journals. Teri serves as the media technology specialist at Linden Elementary School, where she uses her creativity and love of art to enrich her students' Media Center experience. Teri enjoys creating with paper and has been making mini albums for several years. She is a member of Creative Woman of Color, a local artist collaborative.
